SCRUGGS HELD FOR THE GRAND JURY.

HE AND LANGHORNE WILL HAVE TO FACE THE MUSIC.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Richard M. Scruggs and E. S. Langhorne were again held to the Grand-jury to-day, accused of attempting to evade the customs duties by surreptitiously bringing into this country divers articles intended for presents. Their bond for $5,000 each, given two weeks ago to-day, was continued and they left the court with their friends and attorney. The case will go before the jury in the ordinary course of business, and an indictment is very likely.

Mr. Scruggs and Mr. Langhorne may go to St. Louis next week. Mr. Scruggs was the chief witness to-day. He was still weak, but stronger than on Thursday, when he presented a really pathetic appearance. He told the story of the now famous trip in a frank, open style. He positively denied the story of Inspector Donohue that he took a certain ring from Mr. Langhorne's pocket and said he heard Donohue forcing Langhorne to take it from his watch chain, and saw it removed.

The Government's attorney, Mr. Hines, created surprise when the case opened by declining to cross examine Mr. Langhorne, who was on the stand when the case adjourned Thursday. He followed the same course with Mr. Scruggs. Mr. Vandervoort and the other witnesses called to testify to the character of the men. Mr. Hines displayed much irritation at different times. He seems one of those "scrappy" fellows, temporarily with power in his hands, and as he has charge of the case before the Grand-jury it is pretty certain that everything possible will be done to secure an indictment.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 5.—The Scruggs-Langhorne case was resumed by Commissioner Shields this morning, before whom Richard M. Scruggs and E. S. Langhorne had been charged with attempting to smuggle goods into this port without payment of duty. The accused came into court with Gen. Ketcham, their attorney, Mr. Vandervoort and other friends were present.

When the hearing was adjourned on Thursday the Government's direct testimony had closed and Mr. Langhorne was testifying for the defense.

Mr. Scruggs was the first witness called this morning. He said he had been in business forty-seven years in St. Louis. He went to Europe and returned with Mr. Langhorne. Gen. Ketcham requested him to tell the entire story of the trip and return. The Government's object was to get a conversation had in Europe being given. The objection was sustained, after which he began his story.

He then traced his steps to the Hotel Metropole in London, which was reached in a few days, when they took adjoining rooms. "About the middle of April in London I purchased three watches and had monograms put on them. I bought at the same time a ring and presented it to Mr. Langhorne and purchased one for myself, which I had on when I reached New York. With the exception of Langhorne's ring they remained at the store where they were purchased for several weeks. I think about May 18, after my return from Paris, I had put on one of the watches 'S. S.' for Sally Scruggs, my sister, on another 'M. B.' for Mildred Berry, my niece, on another 'T. H.' for a grand-daughter of my sister, all of whom live in my house. They were bought for presents."

"I looked at other places for goods, but returned to the store where the first things were purchased and bought other articles. In my presence Mr. Langhorne bought a gold watch for himself at this time and ordered his monogram placed on it. He also bought a ring, a solid gold one, on which he wanted his initials. That ring was among the things seized. It had been ordered changed several times, as it did not fit."

"We did not have but one purse. Mr. Langhorne paid all our bills. At times I did not have a shilling with which I could have had my shoes blackened."

Mr. Scruggs then said the exhibits he believed were the articles bought in Europe. He said he saw Mr. Langhorne's belt often while in Europe. It was used for carrying coin. He and Langhorne were constantly together.

Returning to the purchasing of the articles, he said: "All the articles I bought were intended for presents except those I bought for myself and those I gave Langhorne."

"The articles I bought for myself were two scarves and one ring. They were not seized. I bought two scarves and a ring for Langhorne. They, too, were not seized. All of these were on the bills."

"Then with grave care and impressiveness he said: 'I believed that articles purchased for oneself, one's family, and for presents, nothing to be sold, were not dutiable. I had never been abroad, had no knowledge of the law and did not know I was doing anything wrong. For years I have had charge of the financial end of our St. Louis dry goods house. I signed checks and had not for a number of years had anything to do with the importing of goods."

The belt was again brought up and Mr. Scruggs said the articles in the belt were placed there for safety only; "they had been in boxes, in trunks, and a few of the articles were taken out of the boxes, put in the belt and the boxes divided between us. They were put in our pockets; three, containing jewelry, were put in an outside vest pocket and an empty box was put in my coat tail pocket. All of the jewelry, except a bracelet, belonged to me."

"On our return to New York Mr. Langhorne and I were frequently on deck together. We could have thrown the small boxes overboard easily without detection. We came off the boat, walked across the platform and began to hunt for our baggage. I got all mine together. Mr. Langhorne had a heavy coat on his arm. I did not see anything hanging out of the pocket. I saw a man with Mr. Langhorne examining one of the trunks. I watched the procedure. Mr. Langhorne and the man went off. Mr. Langhorne saying he was going to pay his duties. In a moment Mr. Langhorne returned and said: 'Mr. Scruggs, this man says these articles we have are dutiable.' It was the first time I heard that they were dutiable. No one had asked me to list them."

"I told Langhorne I wanted to pay all that was due and reached for my purse for the bill. Mr. Langhorne took the bills out of the pocketbook. I did not object to paying duty."

Mr. Scruggs then said he heard Mr. Donohue order Mr. Langhorne to take a ring from his watch chain and saw him take it off under protest. Mr. Scruggs said: "It was positively taken from his watch chain and not from his pocket, as Donohue swore on Thursday."

"I took my articles from the boxes at the request of Donohue, who said he wanted the articles I had. I replied that I wanted to pay duty on all that I was compelled to do. He replied, 'It is too late; give me up all you have or I will search you.' I replied it is unnecessary for you to search me, and I then gave him all the things. One was a monogram watch I had worn from London."

This closed Mr. Scruggs' evidence and the Government attorney declined to question him.

Gen. Ketcham then asked Scruggs his age, which he said was 76, and Mr. Scruggs retired.

Mr. W. F. Vandervoort then took the stand. He had been in business with Mr. Scruggs for thirty-seven years. Mr. Scruggs had charge of the financial end of the business and did not have anything to do with the importation of goods.

Col. Charles R. Pope, formerly of St. Louis, now a resident of New York, had known Mr. Scruggs for thirty-five years. He knew his character to be absolutely above reproach.

Commissioner Shields said he supposed there was no doubt of the men's characters.

Assistant District Attorney Hines (artfully said: "Oh, it makes no difference; let the men complement their friend, but it can't enter here. If all St. Louis was brought here to testify as to their character it would not make any difference."

The Commissioner then agreed and said only questions of fact were competent before him. Did the men bring the things into this country without paying duty, and by doing it did they defraud the Government, was the question before him.

Gen. Ketcham began to argue and got only this far: "If the Government admits that no fraud was intended—then—" when Mr. Hines broke in heatedly: "The Government does not acknowledge any such thing."

Gen. Ketcham took another tack and began his speech again, but again Mr. Hines displayed much irritation. He is red headed, sharp featured and bellicose by nature, and impressed one as being a bluffing prosecutor. He truly withdrew his objections to the testimony, saying he would not have objected had he dreamed a talk was to result. A sharp retort followed and then W. C. Steigars and Mr. Kip were permitted to testify as to the character of Scruggs and Langhorne.

This closed the case for the defense. Mr. Hines announced that he had evidence to offer in rebuttal, but would not do so.

Gen. Ketcham then made a brief address. Mr. Hines declined to reply. Commissioner Shields promptly held both men to the Grand-jury. In doing so he said there were plain questions of fact involved by reason of contradiction of evidence and he was not called upon to decide which was the truth. He continued the bond under which they had rested.

WANTS TO SELL A LAZY HUSBAND.

HE MAY BE A SLAVE SIX MONTHS Unless He Raises Cash Right Away There Is No Escape From the Auction Block.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

On Thursday next, at the east front door of the City Court-house, Hubert Kauling, until recently a resident at 536 Patton avenue, will probably be sold to the highest bidder for a term of six months.

There is but one way to escape this fate, and that is to put up enough cash to pay for his freedom for that period. Kauling says this is impossible.

If the action begun Saturday morning in Justice Harmon's court stands the test, on Thursday, or as soon after the trial as the Judge may decree, Kauling will be taken by the Sheriff or a Constable to the place designated and auction his time, as dealers did with their slaves before the war.

A man thus sold under the law will be compelled to serve his "master" as faithfully and conscientiously as he would an employer.

In her bill of complaint Mrs. Kauling states she was married to the defendant in St. Louis on Jan. 2, 1888, and that she has always been to him a true and loving wife. Three children were the fruit of the union. Two are dead. Clara, the youngest, is with Plaintiff.

On Sept. 5, 1886, the petition says, Kauling deserted his family and refused to contribute for their support, nor has he since then given to the plaintiff for her sustenance and that of her child one cent.

She says the count he now is declared a vagrant under the provisions of chapter 188, section 836 of the Revised Statutes of 1885, and that under Section 839 of the same chapter his time be sold and that she be given relief after the charges and costs of the suit have been paid.

The section first quoted in chapter 188 says: "Every able-bodied man who shall be found loitering about without visible means of support and maintenance, and who does not apply himself to labor or some other honest calling to procure a livelihood, and all able-bodied persons who are found begging or who are found in the streets or in the houses of others, and who are found without visible means of subsistence shall be deemed and treated as a vagrant."

Section 839, that provides for the sale of such convicted vagrant's time, reads: "If upon examination it shall appear that such person is a vagrant, the fact of vagrancy having been established by a jury summoned and sworn to inquire whether the person be a vagrant or not, the justice shall make out a warrant directing the sheriff or constable to keep such person in his custody until three days' notice can be given to the person, and set up in the most public places in the county, of the hearing of such vagrant at the Court-house door of said county for the term of six months."

JOE NESTER AS A LOCHNVAR.

TOOK HIS CHILD LOVE BY FORCE OF ARMS.

Mamie Lammers Is Only 13, but She Knows the Man She Yearns For.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., June 5.—H. Hood, a farmer from Nebraska who was temporarily living here for his health, was trapped by a woman a few days since, who made love to him. When it was convenient her husband came on the scene and, with revolver, forced the old man to sign notes for $1,000 and sign a chattel mortgage for his property on his Nebraska farm. The parties who worked Hood went by the name of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Wilson. After the notes were signed they immediately left for parts unknown. It is believed, however, that they belong in Kansas City.

The Lammers live at 454 Pennsylvania avenue, Mamie's father, Frederick, is a laborer. Mamie is pretty, with big innocent-looking blue eyes, and short, curly, flaxen hair. She has always been a good girl, her mother says, and the only thing she ever did that was objectionable was to love Joe Nester.

The Lammers have another daughter, Sarah. She is married and lives next door. Her husband, Charles Nester, is a brother of Joe, and it was while visiting Charles that Joe met Mamie and lost his heart to her.

Joe is a huckster. He is 21 years old, stalwart and handsome. His habits are not the best, but he had a good wagon and horse, and his voice when he passed Mamie's house crying his wares sounded sweet to her. Sometimes when he came to see her he was under the influence of liquor, but Mamie was always ready to forgive him.

Lammers, later, was not so forgiving. He ordered Mamie not to receive Joe any more. Mamie is pretty, with big innocent-looking blue eyes, and short, curly, flaxen hair. She has always been a good girl, her mother says, and the only thing she ever did that was objectionable was to love Joe Nester.

DISGRACEFUL CLOSING SCENES.

EXCEEDINGLY RIOTOUS WIND-UP OF THE ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE.

EXTRA SESSION PROBABLE.

DEFEAT OF THE REVENUE AND APPORTIONMENT BILLS THE CAUSE.

GRAVE SCANDAL IN THE AIR.

The Gas Bills Signed and a Report That the Market Was Played by Insiders.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 5.—At 4:30 o'clock this morning the Illinois Legislature adjourned sine die after a session lasting five months. The scenes attendant on the last hours of the body were bolstered on beyond description. The usual scenes of wild excitement which have usually been confined to the House were transplanted to the Senate side and during the early hours this morning riot was only prevented by force of officers.

It all came up over the buttermilk bill. Two days ago a clerk in the House conveniently allowed the purloining of the Senate compromise bill after the House had amended it to the detriment of the interest. Speaker Curtis coolly called the bill to be engrossed from a printed copy. When the bill was sent to the Senate there was a great protest and this morning Mahoney took the chair and quickly as a flash Anthony shot in a protest against the bill. The protest was brief and pithy and was accompanied by affidavits of Secretary, Paddock of the Senate and E. E. McCoy, who was in charge of the bill when it was stolen. Mahoney recognized a memorandum friendly to the oleomargarine interests and a recess was taken for an hour.

When the Senate reconvened trouble of the gravest sort was in the air. Fisher took the chair and Berry opened up by moving that the protest be expunged from the records. The Senate was in the greatest disorder, and many members were made riotous by numerous visits to an improvised bar in a committee-room. Fisher ordered a roll call on the motion and Mahoney ran down to the Secretary's desk and shouted to Fisher: "Don't you try to bulldoze this body."

"Don't you try to bulldoze me," retorted Fisher with a scolding feeling.

The clock pointed to midnight and O'Brien stood watch over it and defied anybody to turn it back. Members forced their way down to the desk and voted aye and no as each name was called. O'Brien finally closed with Dunlap, and one of the lawyers' assistants, and it required a dozen officers to prevent a free-for-all fight. The protest was finally expunged.

In the House Salmons of Vermilion watched the roll call on the bill increasing the salaries of Supreme Court Justices to $7,000, which finally passed. Representative Miller was acting as clerk, and some of those favoring the bill had chairs for absent members. Salmons charged Miller with recording the vote under the name of the absent members. Salmons dared him to come down in the aisle. A verification of the roll sheet this squabble.

There is a great scandal, which was reported in the House early this morning, and which is now street gossip. It is reported the Governor signed the gas bills last night. Crawford, who had charge of the bills, says this is true, but it cannot be confirmed. It is openly charged by other members that the bills were signed during the night, and that persons on the inside played the market. When the Governor's office closed last night at 10 o'clock it was said nothing more would be done. This morning, when Mr. Mack Tamm, the Governor's son and private secretary, was asked if the bills had been signed he said he did not know. The Governor could not be seen. It is now given out that the bills have been signed, but the hour is not given. The Governor was on the floor of the House last night for the first time this session. He expressed his disappointment that the Senatorial reapportionment bill had been beaten and the Congressional bill abandoned. The Governor said the revenue bill to be beaten, and those who favored his reapportionment scheme and assistance of Democrats who fell in the trap. This gave the Governor a loophole for a special session, and he will doubtless call it.

The bills passed during the closing hours were, with a few exceptions, of no special importance. The bad bills were passed earlier in the day and question it is a brazenry which has not been characteristic of former sessions. One of the last bills to creep through was Latta's, which is said to repeal every trust law on the statute books. It allows mining and manufacturing companies to form combinations for the maintenance of wages.

THEY HAD ENOUGH.

Sensational Attempt of Father and Son to Commit Suicide.

TOLEDO, O., June 5.—Lealie C. Barnes, convicted of perjury, and his father both made desperate efforts to commit suicide in court here last evening. As soon as the verdict was read Barnes' father, who is 59 years old, exclaimed "this is not justice," and pulling a knife made several desperate attempts to kill himself. After a half-hour during which several men were severely cut, the elder Barnes was overpowered. He sooner he had been shackled than he was commenced to hurt men right and left and started on a run for one of the windows. He was about to leap to the ground, a distance of over fifty feet, when he was caught.

TOM WATSON'S CONVENTION.

Mr. Tom Watson's Middle-of-the-Road Convention, which is to meet at Memphis July 4, is getting a great deal of favorable notice in the metropolitan press, including that of it which is avowedly Republican in politics and that part which rolled up the 130,000 votes for the Palmer-Buckner side show.

The Middle-of-the-Roaders are complimented as "men of principle and integrity" who cannot "maintain their integrity" by further fusion with Democrats.

We thus see a strong bond of sympathy established between the "men of principle and conviction" and the men of principal interest. The men who are trying to "maintain their integrity" are cheered by the echo by the men who are trying to maintain their advantage. Such "fusion" as this is not often seen, but it is related that the Devil can quote Scripture on occasion, and we presume the Middle-of-the-Roaders are proud of the company they keep.

But it is a deliberate misstatement to say that the Watson meeting will be "a national convention of the Populist party." In the call for that convention the Populist National Committee in general, and its chairman in particular, are denounced by Watson. Under existing party organization the National Committee is the only power authorized to call "a national convention of the Populist party." Hence the Memphis meeting stands confessed, by its own promoters, as irregular and without party standing.

The strangest bedfellows that politics has ever made are the Populist and the Plutocrat.

IMPORTANT ILLINOIS ELECTION.

The judicial campaign in Illinois, which closes to-day, should bring to the polls next Monday every Democratic voter in the State. Elections will be held all over the State for the election of Circuit Judges and seven Judges of the Supreme Court. The character and attainments of all the Democratic nominees are such as to command undivided party support.

The Democrats can win if they will but exercise the right and discharge the duty of voting. In every circuit they will find the names of three Democratic candidates for Circuit Judge and in addition the name of one Democratic candidate for Supreme Judge. Each voter is entitled to vote for four candidates, one for the Supreme and three for the Circuit Bench.

In the Supreme Judicial Circuit opposite St. Louis Judge Carroll C. Boggs is the Democratic candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court. He has had large judicial experience as well as legal training. The counties north of St. Clair are in another Supreme Circuit in which Judge Phillips is the Democratic candidate for Supreme Judge. He is now Chief Justice of the Illinois Supreme Court. In all the circuits men have been nominated for Circuit Judge by the Democrats who are not only qualified but have had experience on the bench.

If the Democrats will vote and see that their ballots are properly prepared there is no doubt of Democratic success. Their supreme duty next Monday is to vote.

THE NICARAGUA CANAL.

Henry J. Sheldon of Chicago has written some interesting "Notes on the Nicaragua Canal." His natural abilities and his attainments in mechanical and scientific pursuits eminently qualify him for the discussion of the subject, but his information, acquired by a personal survey of the contemplated route, gives added value to his observations.

Mr. Sheldon proves two things conclusively: first, that the canal can be built for less than one hundred million dollars; second, that it will be immensely profitable on a capitalization covering legitimate bond and stock issues. These are facts with which careful investigators of the subject have all along been familiar, but Mr. Sheldon's testimony may fairly be regarded as conclusive on these two points.

This being true, the question will naturally arise why he should urge the necessity of the United States Government becoming a guarantor of the bonds of the canal company. A scheme so practicable and holding out such excellent prospects of financial returns ought to be easily capitalized at a time when there are millions of dollars of private capital seeking safe and remunerative investment.

The motives of those who urge a Gov-

THE SPRINGFIELD SHAMBLES.

John M. Harlan of Chicago said in a public speech last Sunday that $1,500 a vote was paid for the support of the Chicago Gas Consolidation and Frontage Bill in the Illinois Assembly. The New York Herald charges that a corruption fund of $750,000 was raised to secure the passage of the street car bill.

It is evident that in the closing hours of the session the legislative cattle could command their own prices. In the Senate 15 of the 26 Senators whose terms expire next year voted away their political future for what they could get for it. In the House 82 members branded themselves with infamy on the same terms.

A change of six votes in the House would have defeated the bill. The corporation cattle buyers were all hands at the trade. They paid the price asked for every head of stock they bought, but they bought only two or three more than they needed. Seventy-seven votes were enough for their purpose. They bought several extra heads to cover accidents, and then closed the gates. Doubtless there are a number of balked and bellowing steers outside the corral.

The people have become familiar with legislative corruption. In such infamy Illinois has for years held an unenviable distinction. From that bad eminence she has appeared to be a Commonwealth selling to corporations bad laws and immunities from good ones. The spectacle has been a shameful one, and all the more disgraceful because the people have re-elected these vile wretches after their infamy had been exposed.

Henceforth the searcher for a term of contumely and contempt, who seeks to cover the object of his wrath with shame and disgrace, will consider himself fortunate if he is able to say that the wretch was a member of the Fortieth Assembly of Illinois.

WANAMAKER'S "PESSIMISM."

The false prophets of Republicanism and the gold standard are crying out "calamity howler" and "pessimism" against all who dare to point to the fact that their prophecies were false and that the prosperity they promised has not yet come. It is amusing to Democrats to note that McKinley and the other false prophets are obliged to include "calamity howlers" and "pessimists" two of the leaders in their own ranks—ex-post-master General Wanamaker and Secretary of the Treasury Lyman J. Gage, both of whom assert positively that industrial depression still hangs over the country like a black cloud.

In closing his pretty alternative phrase, "A patriot makes a better citizen than a pessimist," President McKinley had evidently failed to look up the definition of a "pessimist." A pessimist is not a man who points out evils that exist, but one who persistently looks upon the dark side, seeing nothing but gloom. In stating that the promise of prosperity has not come, Mr. Wanamaker and Secretary Gage have only stated facts that are patent to all but blind parties.

Far more mischievous than the pessimist at such a time as this is the false prophet, who, in the language of Scripture, cries "peace, peace," when there is no peace. Such prophets are condemned in the strongest terms by the Hebrew prophet. They are "lying prophets" and their ways are abominable. A large number of the partisan Republicans are striving for the mantles of that kind of prophecy. But the country can be thankful that there are a few like Wanamaker and Gage, who prefer to be accused of pessimism rather than join the corps of gold standard humbuggers who are so vociferous just now.

The Supreme Court of the United States has very clearly decided that the president has not exclusive power in the recognition of belligerency or independence. Senator Daniel of Virginia quotes from the decision in the case of the United States against Palmer, in 3 Wheaton 648:

"This court is further of opinion that when a civil war rages in a foreign nation, one part of which separates itself from the established government and erects itself into a distinct government, the courts of the United States may view such newly-constituted government as it is viewed by the Legislative and Executive Departments of the Government of the United States."

Who is the sovereign de jure or de facto of a territory is not a judicial but a political question, the determination of which by the legislative and executive departments of any government conclusively binds the judges, etc.

The Globe-Democrat has fopped again. A few days ago it was declaring that the United States has never known such a revival of business as has been experienced during the six months that have elapsed since McKinley's election. In today's issue it points out that while St. Louis' bank clearances show a large increase over the corresponding week last year, which was the week after the cyclone, the bank clearances for the country at large show a decrease of 8 per cent. Is the Globe-Democrat preparing to join the ranks of the "calamity howlers?"

If it costs the Chicago corporations $1,000,000 to debauch the Illinois Legislature, some of the boddlers will be fully compensated for the kicking they will get from their constituents. And the corporations are not spending this money merely to be rid of it. They will get it back from the people and with large interest.

As Mr. McKinley says, the patriot is a better citizen than the pessimist; but, under bad government, the patriot is very likely to drift into pessimism. When slush funds elect Presidents and trusts and monopolies govern Congress, there is not much room for optimism in patriot bosoms.

The Postmaster General has instructed Postmaster Ham at Dubuque to reinstate as a letter carrier a slugging named St.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE.

Ellis H. Roberts.

This is the New Yorker who has just been nominated for Treasurer of the United States. His appointment is the result of a compromise with Senator Platt, who wanted him for Sub-Treasurer at New York, a place Secretary Gage insisted should be retained by Conrad N. Jordan.

Not to be outdone, the Duchess of Portland, his wife, has lately been using her influence against the use of algimates and birds on women's hats, a fashion which entails the wholesale slaughter of millions of birds every year.

Miss Cora B. Hertz of Chicago has been appointed one of the five assistant counsel in the office of Corporation Counsel Thornton. That means that she has at her disposal a place which no woman has ever before held. It means further that she holds the highest official position in the municipality that any member of her sex has ever been appointed to.

Mrs. S. T. Pluhart, formerly of Kansas City, is now the superintendent of the work of the American Red Cross in Cyprus. In a letter written home she tells of the hardships suffered by the widows and orphans of the murdered Armenians and by the men who, though once soldiers, have been deprived of everything and are now forced to accept charity.

The "Divine Sarah" is once more the recipient of Queen Victoria's favor, this time having received from Her Majesty a magnificent bracelet, in the center of which is a large pearl of unusual beauty and great value. # FROM THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER.

President McKinley and Secretary Gage and their Wall street masters know exactly what they want to do, but the President dare not tell.

He is afraid of the people. He knows the storm of indignation he would raise if he should dare to recommend to Congress the retirement of the greenbacks, and the substitution of a currency issued by private banks. Whether Wall street will ever be able to drag the Administration up to the mark of the fulfillment of its pledges privately made is the great question of the future.

It is beyond belief that the Administration has no plans. It is incredible that any set of men would take power in these times and have no scheme for financial relief. We repeat that the scheme to which the Administration is bound by its league with the money power is one that it dare not announce until it has been sifted through a commission of pompous puppets of Wall street, calling themselves "financiers."

The central point in the scheme is the retirement of the greenbacks. How do the Republicans of Ohio feel on the subject? Their State Convention will soon meet. Let its leaders decide upon a declaration on the subject. Let them resolve that the greenbacks ought to be retired. That is what the Administration is pledged to, but dare not say so. Or, let the convention declare against the retirement of the greenbacks, and thereby force the President to choose between the gold operators in Wall street and the Republican party in his own State. Senator Hanna can tell the leaders which side to take on this momentous question. Will he do it?

What an Honest Congress Would Do.

From the New York Journal.

The right of the Sugar Trust to aid in buying elections and, by consequence, legislation to fill its pockets, having been formally established by judicial decision, what should Congress do about it?

This Congress will do nothing. It is dominated by the party which has behind it the trust, the united power of the predatory and privilege seeking wealth of the whole country. This Congress and this Administration cannot turn upon the trusts without being in ungrateful rebellion against their creator.

But a Congress elected by the people and impelled to act in the public interest would make swift response to Judge Bradley's acquittal of Havemeyer and Searies by requiring the Sugar Trust's ability to contribute to campaign funds. The Senate Tariff bill proposes to give this monopoly a protection worth in cash about $2,000,000 a year to make it a present of that vast sum in addition to what it is entitled to for the sugar which it sells to the American people. An honest Congress would deprive the Sugar Trust of protection altogether. And this could be done without affecting the revenue. By placing a duty on refined sugar that should be equivalent simply to the duty collected on the raw sugar used by the refineries of the Trust, Messrs. Havemeyer and Searies and their partners would be driven out of the business of corrupting our public life for their private profit and reduced to their proper rank as makers and sellers of sugar.

Those Prosperity Promises.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Cabinet officers—especially the Secretary of the Treasury—should not be required to speak in public these troublous times. There is nothing for them to do but repeat the promises of last year, and they have become offensive antiquities. There may have been a time when "glittering generalities" would dazzle people out of their understanding, but it is not in 1897, when the vast majority of the people are Presidential battle, in which the country was promised immediate good times as a sentimental result of the election of the advance agent of prosperity. The press was quick to see that the show was not materialized.

Growing in Kentucky.

From the Louisville Dispatch.

Democratic primaries held throughout Kentucky this year give greater assurance of victory for the party of the people this fall than any other evidence thus far presented. In almost every instance the Democratic vote at the primaries has been greater than the vote cast for Bryan last fall. This indicates not only that the large number of Populists who united with the Democrats on the national ticket are remaining in the fold, but that many of the so-called sound-money Democrats are returning.

A Savage Revenge.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"That Miss Highgear has a dreadful temper. Some careless fellow ran against her yesterday, and she drew a hat pin on him as quick as a flash." "Did she stab him?" "No, she stabbed his tire."

Experience Arguing.

From the Houston (Tex.) Post.

One of the notable things in all parts of the country is the crystallization of sentiment that the remonetization of silver will be necessary to bring relief from the depression from which the country is suffering. Experience is making its argument to the jury.

A Discouraging Snap.

From the Washington Post.

The Democrats snapped up that Missouri district in a manner which must be very discouraging to Republican Congressmen who are now representing districts that used to be Democratic.

"NEARER TO THEE."

From the Christian Advocate.

They were singing, sweetly singing, And the song melodiously, And the evening air was ringing: "Nearer, O my God, to Thee" In my eyes the teardrops glistened As it stirred the twilight dim, And I wondered as I listened If it brought them nearer Him.

Were they like the wanderer, weary, Song and life in sweet accord, Resting in the darkness dreary In that nearness to the Lord? Had His Spirit ever sought them, To be slighted or denied? Had that dear song ever brought them Closer to the Savior's side?

I have heard its music often, Felt its meaning deep and sweet, And my weary heart would often Singing at my Master's feet. "Nearer Thee"—O precious feeling! Nearer Thee—O precious feeling! Nearer Thee—O precious feeling! Nearer Thee—O precious feeling!

Nearer Thee when love descending Falls in blessings on my head; Nearer Thee when I am bending Near the grave that hides my dead! Nearer Thee in joy, in sorrow, 'Tis the same where'er I roam Nearer Thee to-day, to-morrow, O my King, my Christ, my home!

EPISCOPAL BISHOPS.

Five American Clergymen Sail for the Queen's Jubilee.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Five American bishops of the Episcopal Church—Underwood Dudley of Kentucky, Worthington of Nebraska, Leonard of Ohio, Perry of Iowa and Vincent of Southern Ohio—all accompanied by their wives and some by families, sailed on the Lucania today to take part in the Queen's Jubilee and attend the Lambeth Conference. Six American bishops sailed last week.

Among the various subjects to be considered by the College of Bishops will be the revision of marginal notes and commentaries on the St. James Bible, and discussion of foreign mission work and the relation of brotherhood inside the church. All the American bishops have individual engagements to speak in various English churches. Bishop Worthington will preach at St. Thomas' Church, Winchester, and at Glastonbury, Abbey on invitation of the Bishop of Bath. Bishop Dudley will preach at Canterbury Cathedral and in the Isle of Thanet.

Bishop Dudley will preach at Ely and Canterbury Cathedral and before the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in London, and on July 4 will speak to Americans in St. James.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Premier of Canada, sailed for England today on the Lucania to take part in the Queen's Jubilee. He was accompanied by his wife and Capt. H. Allan Bate, the military attaché. In the same party was Sir Henry H. Hall, secretary of the Canadian Government in the Privy Council. Sir Henry has been seven years in public life.

D. B. McTear, Queen's Counsel of Ottawa, goes to the home Government as the Dominion representative of the Canadian fisheries and is much interested in the subject of jurisdiction over Canadian inland waters. The Marquis of Dufferin, John Turner and Mrs. Robert Garrett will also sail on the Lucania.

WAR OF THE BLACKSMITHS.

The Cronins, Howards and Butlers in Distressing Conflict.

Hostilities between the Cronins, the Howards, the Butlers and their several followers were renewed at 8 o'clock Friday night.

Early in the day, as told in the Post-Dispatch, Jim Cronin had visited the blacksmith shop of Cronin & Howard and demanded the books of the firm composed of Mike Howard and Bob Cronin, a brother to Jim. Howard had compelled Cronin at the shop to sign a receipt for the books and to depart with a badly bungled eye.

Friday night Col. Ed Butler got into the Cronin household and demanded the books from the Cronins. He was met by Mike Howard, who was armed with a revolver. Butler was shot in the arm and Howard was shot in the leg. Butler was taken to the hospital and Howard was taken to the hospital.

Howard was taken to the hospital and Butler was taken to the hospital. Howard was taken to the hospital and Butler was taken to the hospital.

A MOUNTAIN OF CLOTHING.

Enough high-class apparel to clothe all St. Louis! That's what Max Schulz, the great South Broadway and Hickory street merchant, secured in the great scoop of Mr. Berk's entire stock. Mr. Berk, a tired old man, had sold his stock at 30 cents on the dollar, Schulz taking the whole business.

Look at Schulz's great department store, and you will find it piled almost ceiling high with the high-class, elegant clothing Berk used for men, boys and children.

Thirty cents for a dollar's worth of clothing. Think of it! And such clothing, you would not believe it possible. But seeing is believing. There's going to be a jam at Schulz's great department store, and the lucky customers will spread the news far and wide, that clothing will be sold below the cost of raw materials.

SAY MRS. SPAULDING

Deserted Her Husband, Then Gave Him the Laugh.

William Spaulding wanted a warrant Saturday charging his wife with larceny. He said he wanted to his home at 326 St. Louis avenue Friday night expecting to be welcomed by his wife after a hard day's toil, and found the house vacated and the doors locked. He could not find his wife, and the whereabouts of his wife was a mystery.

He went to a hotel for the night, and Saturday morning met his wife in a restaurant. He asked her what she had done with the furniture, and she says she laughed and left in disgust. The warrant was not issued.

BIGGEST RACE OF THE YEAR.

CLUB MEMBERS' HANDICAP BRINGS OUT THE CRACKS.

TYPHOON II. IS THE FAVORITE.

"Is there a horse in the race that can make Typhoon II. stretch his neck?" That seems to be the only open question about Saturday afternoon's Club Members' handicap.

Of course there are other horses in the big race and there are other opinions, otherwise there wouldn't be a horse race. There was evidence shortly after noon at the big track that an event of unusual importance was on the card.

The drawing of the Club Members' handicap was the first symptom that a big crowd was in prospect. Later the stretch in front of the clubhouse began to fill with the members drove out for dinner. Several of the members drove out for dinner. Several of the members drove out for dinner.

It was an ideal day for a big racing event. The sun shone gayly and the air had the softness of June with enough edge on it to drive away ennui.

The best horses in the United States will be lined up at the starting gate to contest the $10,000 stake of the Club Members' Handicap. That the best horses in the country are here is a fact which cannot be disputed. There are at least four who could run all around the world, and the winner of the Brooklyn Handicap, and most of them are entered for the stake race this afternoon.

Heart Failure

Of course the heart fails to act when a man dies, but "Heart Failure," so called, nine times out of ten is caused by Uric Acid in the blood which the kidneys fail to remove, and which corrodes the heart until it becomes unable to perform its functions.

Health Officers in many cities very properly refuse to accept "Heart Failure," as a cause of death. It is frequently a sign of ignorance in the physician, or may be given to cover up the real cause.

Safe Cure

A Medicine with 20 Years of Success behind it... will remove the poisonous Uric Acid by putting the kidneys in a healthy condition so that they will naturally eliminate it.

WANT TO BE RID OF THEIR DEBT.

THE MADISON CAR WORKS WILL BE SOLD.

BONDHOLDERS MAY BUY IN.

The Enterprise Started at a Bad Time and Has Been a Losing Venture.

The Madison Car Works, over in Illinois, are to be sold at auction by the Master in Chancery of Madison County on Saturday, June 12.

The sale is to be made to satisfy a bonded indebtedness on the plant of $50,000, most of which is held by the Ramsey family.

Charles D. Parsons of the State Bank and J. D. Van Blarcom of the National Bank of Commerce represent other bondholders.

President Ramsey said Saturday to a reporter for the Post-Dispatch: "It is an effort to get out and save what we can from what has proved to be an unfortunate investment. We don't care who buys the plant. Anybody can have it. We regard the original investment of $750,000 wholly lost, and this sale now is for the benefit of the bondholders. Whether the property will bring the amount of the bonds I don't know. We hope so, of course."

"We have been in it, if anybody, outside the bond representatives will bid. Probably nobody. The bondholders rather expect to take the property, the wife and pose being to get it out of the hands of a costly receiver."

When asked as to the cause of the company's ill luck, Mr. Ramsey said: "The fortune pursued the enterprise from the beginning. The works were established just at the height of the business depression in railway circles. We opened up in 1928, at the very time when there was a sudden drop in railway supply."

"Every railroad company in the country was loaded with surplus equipment which was built for World War traffic. We had scores of contracts which were repudiated, dozens of roads went into the hands of receivers and their contracts were worthless. We lost money right along, on a great deal of work."

Then in the same season came the flood, which, you know, inundated Madison County. That flood cost us $100,000. Next came the general depression. The works have lasted three years. Railroad building has stopped, new equipment is deferred, and old equipment is not replaced. We have had a large stock of material on hand at old prices and had to make it up into stock for which we got little or nothing. We have had a large stock of freight cars tumbling from $800 to $300."

"Another thing," continued Mr. Ramsey, "our plant cost a great deal more than it ought. It cost $750,000, when we should have been content with a plant of moderate size. We simply close the deal now in order to rid ourselves of a lot of debt we never can pay and a costly receivership. The works have been idle for six months or more, the machinery is rusting out and losing value every month. We saw no prospect ahead of an improvement in railway demand for equipment, and we are resolved to close the deal."

HE WILL NOT MARRY.

Henry Koehler, Jr., Denies His Engagement to Pretty Miss Cravens.

Henry Koehler, Jr., President of the American Brewing Co., denies the report from San Francisco that he is engaged to marry Miss Margaret Cravens, a beautiful and talented actress of that city.

Cravens, the girl's mother, is familiar as a central figure in the Fair will contest. "There is absolutely no truth in the dispatch," said Mr. Koehler. "I make yearly visits to California because I have business there for no other reason than a high regard for Miss Cravens, but am not engaged to her. She has been made the victim of some joker."

Mrs. Brinkman Got Her Divorce.

Miss Little Brinkman was granted a divorce from her husband, Dr. Edward Brinkman, Friday by Judge Klein. She was also given the custody of the 8-year-old daughter, for whose support the court ordered that $250 per month be paid to the mother. The prosecution withdrew the plea that the doctor had been living in adultery.

EDITOR SPEED'S APPOINTMENT.

CITY COMMITTEE SECRETARY.

Thad Harris' Friends Ask His Reappointment to the Board of Election Commissioners.

A meeting of the special committee of the Democratic Executive Committee to select a secretary for the City Committee, was expected to be held Saturday afternoon, but the absence of Chairman John A. Lee from the city will interfere.

Mr. Lee stated some time ago that he thought no action should be taken on the secretaryship until the ward contests were definitely decided. In order that every ward should have a voice in the matter, the Judicial Committee has concluded its report, but referred three of the contests back to the wards for settlement among themselves. Under Mr. Lee's original ruling the secretaryship may remain open until the contesting wards have held precinct conventions.

There was an impression at the outset that the secretary would be named from the membership of the Central Committee. This sentiment has been partially abandoned, and it is believed that there is no apparent desire on the part of members to take the place. Rumor had it Saturday that Mr. Harris, who is now secretary, has the best opportunity because of his experience, and the fact that he is acceptable to all of the factions.

Local politicians are discussing with some surprise a telegram from Jefferson City to Lamar Leader, stating that Editor B. B. Speed has been notified by Gov. Stephens that he will receive appointment as Oil Inspector for St. Louis City, and that Mr. Speed has accepted the position. He is now bookkeeper of Lunatic Asylum No. 2, as Chief Deputy Inspector. It was thought Mr. Speed would become a resident of St. Louis, as the law directs, before accepting the position, and his non-arrival is causing comment.

Thad Harris' term of office as Election Commissioner will expire in August next, and his successor must be appointed by the Governor.

The friends of Mr. Harris are asking his reappointment and are dismayed at the knowledge that Hugh J. Brady is seeking the same office.

Brady has elected himself a member of the City Committee and now desires to control once more the destiny of the city. He has eighteen supporters on the committee and a combination of at least twenty-five against him. Still, there are apprehensions the Governor has seriously considered Brady's name, with reservations sufficient to show he is undecided.

Next week there will be forwarded to Jefferson City a bill for the reappointment of a partisan machine of the Board of Election Commissioners, which is now controlled by the absolutely non-partisan in its enforcement of the election laws and bipartisan in the distribution of its favors.

Hon. John W. Harris of Lebanon, Mo., president of the House of Representatives, was in the city Saturday, accompanied by his wife.

He was en route to Troy to attend the commencement exercises of the private college, where he has a son, and was accompanied by O. H. Avery. It is presumed, of course, he will attend the personal acquaintance of the interest of his constituents in the city.

Mr. Harris had no opinion to express on the probabilities of an extra session.

HE DOESN'T KNOW WHY.

Wm. Welsh Jumped Into the River Without Apparent Cause.

William Welsh threw himself into the river from a wharfboat at the foot of Carr street, at 5:45 o'clock, Saturday morning. He was rescued by Richard Bower and Andrew Smith, who took him to the hospital.

Welsh said at the hospital, "but I do not remember why. There was no particular reason for it. I just jumped into the river and expected to die. Somebody pulled me out. I live in Edwardsville, Ill. That is I did live there until three months ago, when I went to Madison and found work in the round-house. I had only been there a few days when the East St. Louis police arrested me. Then sent me here to St. Louis and put me in the hospital. St. Bridget's is the nearest hospital to where I live. I was somewhere. I was there two months, and when I was turned out I went to live with my wife and children. I was a motorman on the St. Louis and North Western."

"Last night I stayed at a hotel on Broadway opposite the state stable. When I got up this morning I took a walk and saw the river. I just went and jumped in. I never had any trouble of any consequence. I did not do anything wrong. I was released."

He is 35 years old and is unmarried. His mind is unbalanced, and the hospital physicians say he probably never was right. He speaks with a drawl and is not intelligent in his eyes. He was rescued before he had time to sink once. The physician said he may not be all right, but it is not likely that he will suffer any greater inconvenience.

FORCED TO ASSIGN.

Hard Times Play Havoc With Piano Dealer Bobbitt.

Lawyer V. Mott Porter took possession of the stock of the William T. Bobbitt piano dealer at 1030 Pine street, Saturday morning. A watchman was already on hand as representative of Lawyer Robert E. Collins.

Part of Mr. Bobbitt's stock of pianos, valued at $2,000, was repossessed by Mr. Collins Friday afternoon. Mr. Collins represented Decker & Bros. of New York, the repossessor, their claim having been transferred to him to simplify matters.

Mr. Bobbitt was in consultation with Lawyer Porter at the latter's office for some time Saturday morning. He afterward stated to Post-Dispatch reporter that it was impossible for him to even pay the debt, and that he was forced to assign his books had been gone over.

"Mr. Decker is the principal creditor," said Mr. Bobbitt. "It was because he was pushing me closely and because it was impossible for me to make my collections that I was forced to assign. He and his associates are playing havoc with the piano trade."

Mr. Bobbitt said he had done business with Mr. Decker fifteen years, said he became so unfortunate, I expect suddenly matters arranged, though, and shall probably resume business shortly.

Something over a year ago Mr. Bobbitt was sued for divorce, reconciliation was speedily effected, however, and the suit withdrawn.

Junk Dealer Assaulted.

Joe Manarovsky deals in junk and lives at 128 North Eighth street. Friday afternoon he was passing through the alley between Jule street and Missouri avenue and a brick whizzed through the air and landed on his head. He was knocked to the ground.

John Boig, 19 years old, was arrested, and was identified by Manarovsky as one of the men who assaulted him.

William E. Adams, 100 North Broadway, saw three unknown men prowling about his yard at 1 o'clock Saturday morning. He fired three shots and they ran. He was not known whether he hit anyone or not.

BIG FARM FOR POOR CHILDREN.

PLANS OF A NOVEL AND WORTHY ASSOCIATION.

WILL BEND THE TENDER TWIG.

Homeless Little Ones Will Be Colonized on a Farm Which May Be Self-Sustaining.

At a recent meeting of the officers of the Children's Industrial Farm Association it was decided that active operations should begin earlier than was at first contemplated. This means that the farm will probably be established within the next month or six weeks. As previously set forth in the Post-Dispatch the Children's Industrial Farm is being projected by an organization of St. Louis citizens, whose object is the foundation of a worthy charity.

The organization was effected last January. It was understood that the farm would not be open to the reception of children until all of the necessary money had been raised. It was estimated that a fund of $100,000 would be required as a starter. The plans have been somewhat changed, and it is believed feasible to commence operations on a smaller sum. However, the work of soliciting subscriptions will be pushed and as large a fund as possible will be raised.

Already the officers and members of the association have a considerable amount of money in sight and within the next few days an active canvass for funds will be made. The location of the farm has not yet been decided upon, but a committee will be appointed to select the site.

The object of the association is to secure a place somewhere within fifty miles of the city, where a group of children, as we believe it best to get a little beyond the suburbs, can be placed. The farm is to be a self-sustaining one, and the children will be given a chance to learn the value of hard work and to be self-reliant.

As is generally understood, the object in establishing this farm is to give a home to dependent children. The question of age has not yet been decided, but the general opinion is that children from 4 to 12 will be accepted. This, however, may be changed somewhat. No admission fee will be charged, and none but children dependent on public charity will be admitted.

The membership of the organization is composed of people of various religions and the institution will be strictly non-sectarian. The idea of the management is to co-operate with all other institutions of a charitable nature. The various funds for children in the city will be carefully watched, and whenever there is a lack of room the children will be accommodated at the farm.

The organization proposes the erection of many cottages as are necessary to furnish accommodations. The start will be made with but a few cottages, and the time to time as the funds increase and the need arises. There will be no crowding together, as is necessary the case in city institutions where the children are crowded together.

There will be a large enough and there will be a sufficient number of cottages so it will not be necessary to put too many inmates in one place.

There will be one large central building, which will serve as a general storehouse, school and office. Special attention will be given to moral and physical training. No creed. One of the chief objects of the establishment outside of furnishing a home for the dependent child is to give them a good education. A manual training school will be maintained, and any child exhibiting adaptability for any certain line will be given special training.

In the way of making the farm self-sustaining, or nearly so, as possible, berries will be extensively raised. The berries are started, the children, even the smaller ones, will be given a chance in the management. The Children's Industrial Farm will take rank among the largest berry producing concerns in the whole country.

The association having this charity in charge is regularly incorporated under the State laws and has a board of directors and hold property. The membership will be made up of well known St. Louis citizens. Each member must pay an assessment which goes toward defraying incidental expenses of the management.

The officers are: President, Dr. John D. Vinnell; First Vice-President, Ernest Robyn; Secretary, A. R. Verducci; Treasurer, J. C. Roth.

The advisory board is as follows: R. J. Lackland, Charles W. Nugent, J. C. Meyer, Adolphus Busch, Jacob Furth, R. M. Schreyer, C. H. Pierce, J. C. Tebbets, M. T. Drummond, Wm. McMillan, Jas. E. Yeastman, Charles Parsons, W. B. Boyd, Ben. Eisenman, Daniel J. Connelley, J. J. Lamm and Robert S. Brookings.

From this time forward it is announced, meetings will be held frequently and the work will be pushed rapidly. At the next meeting, which will be held on June 12, it is expected to select a site for the farm.

PAID FOR THEIR JOBS.

There are twenty-seven men around the Ashley building on North Third street. They were recently discharged from the Burlington freight depot by Foreman W. O. Life as being incompetent, inasmuch as none could either read or speak English.

The howl that has gone up is said to be due to the fact that the men, who bought their jobs, some for $10 and some for $100, to a third party, said to be unknown to the railroad people, they would have no claim for his influence in getting them a steady job. This way he found his way to the men.

The Poles failed to see where any one is to blame but the railroad and are seeking redress there.

MARION LAMBERT ON THE WARPATH.

THREATENED TO KILL A LABORER WHO HIT HIM.

BOY MILLIONAIRE'S WRATH.

It Has Cooled and He Is Worried About Having to Appear in Police Court.

Marion Lambert, a son of the late Jordan W. Lambert, is in trouble.

Young Mr. Lambert, though only 17 years old, has more money than some people ever saw, but he went up against a crowd of husky day laborers and now the choice spirits that haunt Jule Peabody's temple of justice will have an opportunity to see a real live young millionaire in the role of defendant in a pebbled disturbance of the peace case.

The issuing of a police summons for young Lambert was the sequel to a fight between labor and capital in fashionable Vandeventer place.

Lumps of clay, a horny fist, a callow face and a shotgun were the accessories.

Boys in the neighborhood were in the habit of playing on the lot until Friday, when the workmen complained that the young millionaire was interfering with their work.

There was what the young millionaire called an altercation in the event of an investigation.

The laborers say it was a scrap.

PAID FOR THEIR JOBS.

There are twenty-seven men around the Ashley building on North Third street. They were recently discharged from the Burlington freight depot by Foreman W. O. Life as being incompetent, inasmuch as none could either read or speak English.

The howl that has gone up is said to be due to the fact that the men, who bought their jobs, some for $10 and some for $100, to a third party, said to be unknown to the railroad people, they would have no claim for his influence in getting them a steady job. This way he found his way to the men.

The Poles failed to see where any one is to blame but the railroad and are seeking redress there.

Miss Bannock's Lady Friend Was Using Peroxide.

Miss Ora Bannock, who refused to give a more definite address than Tenth and Marion streets, was an early caller at the warrant office Saturday.

She desired the arrest of a girl she knew only as Maggie. Maggie had borrowed a pair of handsome pillow sham and when she returned they were stained yellow by some chemical.

Upon investigation she found that Maggie desired to change the raven hue of her hair, had washed her head in peroxide of hydrogen. The chemical had not entirely dried when Maggie reclined her head on the borrowed sham, and the yellow chemical bled into the hair.

Miss Bannock did not get the warrant, but she did take it out of the hide of Miss Maggie.

HERE'S A LITTLE GAME OF FILLEY'S.

CAPT. MILNER STENOGRAPHED AT A COMMITTEE MEETING.

ANXIETY TO TRAP HIM.

Now That the Uthoff Bill Is Doomed, Filley Will Try to Investigate the Street Commissioner.

When the Committee on Municipal Affairs of the City Council was holding meetings and going through the motions of considering the Uthoff salary bill a stenographer sat at the long table in the committee room and took copious notes.

He was addressed as Mr. Roberts, but no body could be found who had ever seen or heard of him before. Even the members of the committee professed not to know anything about him, who employed him or why his presence was required.

He was addressed as Mr. Roberts, but no body could be found who had ever seen or heard of him before. Even the members of the committee professed not to know anything about him, who employed him or why his presence was required.

It was unusual for a stenographer to take the proceedings of committee meetings, as the presence occasioned comment.

It was noticed by those who attended the sessions that the stenographer only took notes when Street Commissioner Milner was speaking. No matter how important the testimony given by other officials, he paid no attention to it.

His instructions by the committee were to take the proceedings of the committee and the Council combine them in an attempt to make some inadvertent admissions about the conduct of his department which would be used against him in the event of an investigation.

When the storm of public protests against the Uthoff salary bill began to blow, the committee began to fear that the Uthoff salary bill would not pass.

Mr. Milner was a careless habit of expression. He frequently says things which he soon after qualifies. He seldom weighs his words carefully.

The stenographer has transcribed his notes on Milner's testimony, and it is being carefully scrutinized by the committee and the Filley agents. It is said that some things have been sorted out which are capable of being used against him in admissions of mismanagement.

Mr. Uthoff was asked Friday who the stenographer was.

"I believe his name was Roberts or Robertson or something like that," he answered evasively.

"Who employed him?"

"Who will pay him?"

"I don't know."

"Why were his services needed?"

Mr. Uthoff then hurried away to avoid making other confessions of ignorance.

He came to the city about two weeks ago from Kingston, Jamaica. He had a brother here who was a bookkeeper in a Third Street produce house, and wrote him he was coming to the city.
